Join a union in Australia.

The peak union in Australia is the Australian Council of Trade Unions (ACTU), and in New South Wales it is Unions NSW. (Contact details listed on the back). These organisations are able to assist your family members and friends identify the unions they should belong to.

If you are a nurse working in New South Wales the union for nurses is the NSW Nurses' Association (NSWNA).

Many workplaces have a branch of the NSWNA. Call us on (02) 8595 1234 or 1300 367 962 (rural), and we will arrange a NSWNA representative to get in contact with you.

You and Australian unions.

The law in Australia says:

- > You have a right to join a union
- > You cannot be discriminated against because you belong to a union.
- > Your employer is encouraged to negotiate with your union.
- > Your union is legally recognised.

What Australian unions do.

Unions are people working together to achieve common goals. Through their unions, workers negotiate things such as:

- > Job security
- > Fair pay and conditions
- > Hours of work
- > Health and Safety on the job
- > Annual leave
- > Dignity and respect
